Play goes right to the brain

Our concept is collected under the heading “Learning by moving”.

Through play and physical activity children develop and challenge their brain, creativity and imagination. Winther trikes and bikes stimulate children to move and to play.

The extent of the Viking range is important, because each product is designed to support and develop children with different motor skills and at various age levels. When playing with different types of trikes and bikes children stimulate and improve their basic motor skills, balance, coordination, social skills, imagination and general learning capabilities. For children from 2-12 years.

Winther products are toys with high play and activity value.
