

Specialized vehicles for after-school clubs and playgrounds

Facts

Children grow up way too quickly.

This is part of the modern trend. Childhood is a period that is getting shorter and shorter. All too soon they have to be small pop idols, or super-cool in-line skaters. And that means playtime is over.

This is a great shame, because nobody should ever get too old to play. This is why we have also developed a special range of products that appeals to the ideas of older children, and that helps encourage them to keep playing just that little bit longer.

Suitable for ages 5–16

This range is for the older kindergarten children, as well as for school children, playgrounds in summer amusement parks, for hotels to use for their guests' children and for use at campsites. These products are specially developed to stimulate the motor skills and interests of slightly older children.

The range includes:

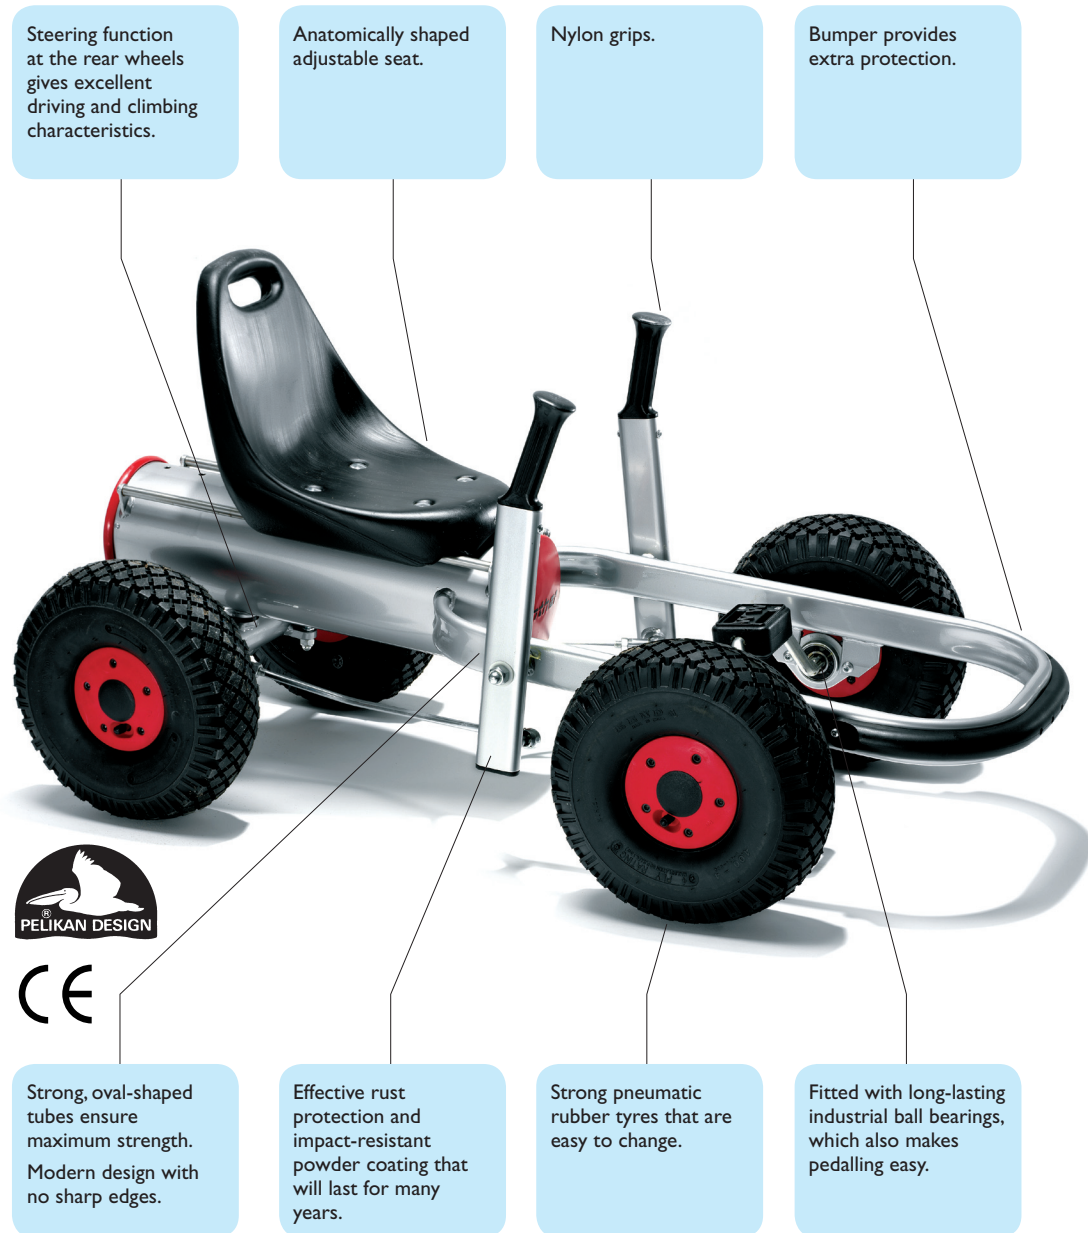

- Vehicles that help develop balance and coordination skills
- Vehicles that challenge and build selfconfidence

We think with our bodies

Some people poke their tongues out when they're really concentrating on something. If we have to do some large-scale thinking, it's rarely done with our heads staring at the paper. Instead, such thoughts occur more often while gazing upwards at the sky. The best way to learn hymns is to do it in rhythm. The best ideas emerge when least expected.

This is all because creativity flourishes best when we send our brains out to play. And we play best when we have tools and toys that provide our bodies with a challenge, and encourage us to indulge in interesting, enjoyable experiences.
